My brothers and sisters:

Few former prisoners of war want neither to revisit the site of their prison camp nor bring back the sad memories of the past. However, in 1992, eight ex-POWs, the survivors of hundreds of Italian servicemen who had been captured in the North African campaign of World War II, returned to the site of Camp 60 at Lamb Holm off the northern coast Scotland, where they had been taken 50 years earlier.

They had come not only to remember that anniversary but also as pilgrims to a special place. During their time at the POW camp, they had worked on the Churchill Barriers, built with large quantities of stone and concrete, which served as a means against attack by sea from the east. Like most camps, Camp 60 was a depressing place but, when a new commander took charge, he wanted to make life as tolerable as possible and encouraged the prisoners to brighten up the camp. Among the things the prisoners were allowed to do was lay out flower beds, build a theater, a recreation room, and a concrete billiard table. Although they had a chaplain, there was no chapel until, supported by the new commander, they joined two tunnel shaped huts.

Then began a remarkable process: wood from a shipwreck became a tabernacle, scrap metal and other abandoned materials were transformed and became a sanctuary, an altar was built of concrete. Leading this team of POWs was a talented artist, Domenico Chiochetti. Above and behind the altar, he painted a picture of Our Lady Queen of Peace and on either side, in stained glass window fashion, pictures of St. Francis of Assisi and St. Catherine of Siena. He adorned the sanctuary with frescos and included the four evangelists as well as angels. Next, a wrought iron screen and gates were fashioned. Then plasterboard, obtained by the new commander, was attached to the wooden framework and the whole building was covered and painted to resemble brick work or carved stone. Finally, the entire outside appearance changed and there now stood a beautiful chapel with a belfry and Gothic pinnacles. Camp 60 has long since gone but the Italian Chapel remains and is lovingly preserved, attracting thousands of pilgrims and visitors each year.

One of the ex-POWs, Bruno Volpi, returned to Lamb Holm in 1992 and said that the spirit and will to express oneself creatively is “stronger than any limitation to freedom.” Such limitations take many forms: captivity, forced exile and even slavery, were no strangers to the people of Israel. Theirs was a history in which freedom to be a people in their own right had been taken from them time after time.

Imprisonment is the most obvious form of limitation to freedom. It can have the effect of taking away a part of a person’s self-worth. In extreme regimes, where a prisoner is no more than a number and where his or her family, ethnicity, religion, culture, talents, or ability, count for nothing, this effect can be total destruction. In harsh regimes, the purpose of imprisonment can be to force an admission to false accusations so that, ultimately, prisoners will confess to anything because they are made to believe that they are worthy of nothing and they are nothing.

In the eyes of Jesus, every person is of infinite worth, whatever his or her background, culture, or religion may be. The beautiful, prophetic imagery of Isaiah in today’s first reading, proclaiming that people from every language and nation will be brought to God’s holy mountain in Jerusalem, finds fulfilment in the Gospel when Jesus declares that people from east and west, from north and south, will come to take their places at the feast of the kingdom of God.

Every person is infinitely loved by God. To the one who asked if there will be only a few saved, Jesus replied that all should strive to enter through the narrow door. Salvation, my brothers and sisters, is God’s gift; neither a Christian’s by right nor confined to any particular religious belief. It is all given out of love. Though we often struggle in our response, it is through the gift of faith that God enables us to enter the “door” to eternal life.

The freedom given by God’s love was expressed by the POWs of Lamb Holm in creating beauty to the glory and honor of God. As we pray this day, may we never be imprisoned within ourselves so that we cannot see God’s love and promise of salvation in people of other races, cultures and religious beliefs.

Peace,
Fr. Joe

MARIA SS. ADDOLORATA OFFERING BLANKET

Several years ago, we introduced the "Maria SS. Addolorata Offering Blanket" to the Italian Festival. It has proven to be a beautiful acknowledgment of our Sorrowful Mother. A donation on the Offering Blanket brings hope to the ill, is in memory of the deceased, or is offered for a very special intention. On the 3rd Friday of each month, a special Italian Mass in honor of The Devotees of Maria Santissima

Addolorata is offered for their intentions at 7:00 P.M. in the Chapel.

During the festival, the blanket will be on display in our Italian Café for the entire 4 days. The presentation of the blanket will take place on Saturday evening, during the candlelight procession following the 7:00 PM Mass.

If you wish to take part in the Offering Blanket, you may submit your donation to Holy Family Church along with the intention you wish for the blanket. Kindly make your check payable to Holy Family Church, but mark the envelope MEMORIAL BLANKET. As always, the blanket will be a magnificent tribute to Our Lady of Sorrows. For more information, please call Gina Tamburri at 973-751-4187.

SAVE THE DATE! - OCTOBER 8, 2016 - Columbus Day Dinner

Holy Family Knights of Columbus Council 14712 is privileged to announce that they will honor and present Alex and Gina Tamburri with the Santa Maria Medal for Catholic Service and Leadership on Saturday evening, October 8, 2016.

This award is given out each year to recognize a group or individual whose outstanding life of service in fidelity to the Church gives witness to the Gospel and provides a model for all of us to grow in our life of faith. Alex and Gina's life long witness to faith and charity is extraordinary and we are confident that their participation in the Dinner Celebration will be an inspiration to all who attend.

We would recommend that in addition to saving the date, that you also begin to organize, confirm and purchase tickets for the guests at the table you plan on sponsoring. Tables usually seat ten adults.

As in past years, we will be offering food from over 40 local restaurants and expect the dinner to be sold out to capacity. The ticket price will remain the same price as last year -$50/per person.
